Assignments

Assignment Descriptions

Orange or Robertson Presentation

Jan

Due: Wednesday, Jan 22 at 11:59 am

Read either Robertson's The Philosophy of CBT (pp. 1-132) or Orange's Thinking for Clinicians (pp. 1-126). You and the others who read the same book will develop a 45-60 minute presentation that will teach what you learned to those in the class who did not read your book. The presentation should be engaging and informative. Develop a brief 10-item quiz to assess how well your learners have mastered the concepts you have taught.

I Haven't a Clue Paper

22

Due: Wednesday, Jan 22 at 12:30 pm

Write a brief (one page) paper defining a philosophical term with which you are unfamiliar. Cite your source(s). Describe how the construct might be applied in counseling psychology.

Philosophy Book Presentation

Feb

05

Due: Wednesday, Feb 05 at 12:30 pm

Read at least 200 pages from one of the philosophical works on the readings list and prepare a presentation for the class on the key points in the book and their implications for counseling psychology. Write a brief summary (1-3 pages) of key concepts and distribute it to the class prior to your presentation. The presentation will be graded for content, effectiveness, and style. You will also be graded on whether or not you read at least 200 pages of the book.

Below are some suggested books. You may also propose an alternative.

The triumph of the therapeutic, (1966) Phillip Rieff

The great psychotherapy debate, (2015) Bruce Wampold

I and thou, (1958) Martin Buber

Beyond freedom and dignity, (1971) B.F. Skinner

Otherwise than being, (1998) Immanuel Levinas

Cosmopolitanism: Ethics in a world of strangers, (2007) K. A. Appiah

Psychology for the other, (2002) Gantt & William (out of print)

Witnessing: Beyond recognition, (2001) Kelly Oliver

Critical thinking about psychology, (2004) Slife, Reber, & Richardson

Truth and method, (2004) Hans-Georg Gadamer

Psychology and the question of agency, (2003) Martin, Sugarman, & Thompson

Ethics and values in psychotherapy, (1999) A.C. Tjeltveit

Toward a philosophy of the act, (1993) Mikhail Bakhtin

Constructing the self, constructing America, (1996) Philip Cushman

Re-envisioning psychology, (1999) Richardson, Fowers, & Guignon

Relational Being, (2011) Kenneth Gergen

Virtue and Psychology, (2005) Blaine Fowers

A New Unified Theory of Psychology (2011) Gregg Henriques

Foundations of Professional Psychology: The End of Theoretical Orientations and the Emergence of the Biopsychosocial Approach (2011) Timothy Melchert

Persuasion and Healing (3rd ed) (1991) Jerome & Julia Frank

Midterm Exam

Mar

04

Due: Wednesday, Mar 04 at 11:59 pm

The test will include both multiple choice and short essay questions taken from the readings, discussions, and presentations.

Theory Discussion

Mar

Due: Wednesday, Mar 11 at 11:59 pm

Lead a discussion of a theory of your choice. Use the Levels of Explanation model as a metatheory to discuss the theory. Read at least 200 pages of original work by the theorist(s) and prepare a summary of key concepts and quotes for the rest of the class (1-3 pages). If available, you might include a video demonstration of counseling according to the theory. Distribute the summary readings prior to the day you lead the discussion. The discussion should include (1) the basic tenets of the theory, (2) the philosophical assumptions of the theory—both personality theory and treatment theory, and (3) an analysis of the degree to which the theory is compatible with Christian and other theistic philosophies. The presentation will be graded for content, effectiveness, and style. You will also be graded on whether or not you read 200 pages of the theorists writing.

Professional Program Proposal

Apr

08

Due: Wednesday, Apr 08 at 11:59 pm

Work with your research team or on your own to author or co-author a proposal for the APA Convention or some other professional meeting. Turn in a copy of the proposal and the cover sheet.

Apr

Due: Wednesday, Apr 08 at 11:59 pm

Write a final paper that addresses one of the following—(1) Articulate your theory of change. Begin by establishing your ontology and related philosophical assumptions. Show how these are consistent with one another and provide a foundation for your theory. Describe the important constructs and processes of your theory, using examples to illustrate how it works in psychotherapy, or (2) Describe how have you integrated your professional philosophy with your theology? Illustrate this integration through an axiological analysis of both. Pay particular attention to making sure your theory isn't just theology and your theology isn't just theory/philosophy.

Papers should be written with meticulous attention to APA style. This means if you make an assertion, you should support that assertion by citing other smart folks who have made the same or similar assertions. The challenge in this kind of writing is to tie your ideas to other thinkers.

University Policies

Honor Code

In keeping with the principles of the BYU Honor Code, students are expected to be honest in all of their academic work. Academic honesty means, most fundamentally, that any work you present as your own must in fact be your own work and not that of another. Violations of this principle may result in a failing grade in the course and additional disciplinary action by the university. Students are also expected to adhere to the Dress and Grooming Standards. Adherence demonstrates respect for yourself and others and ensures an effective learning and working environment. It is the university's expectation, and every instructor's expectation in class, that each student will abide by all Honor Code standards. Please call the Honor Code Office at 422-2847 if you have questions about those standards.

Sexual Misconduct

In accordance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Brigham Young University prohibits unlawful sex discrimination against any participant in its education programs or activities. The university also prohibits sexual harassment-including sexual violence-committed by or against students, university employees, and visitors to campus. As outlined in university policy, sexual harassment, dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking are considered forms of "Sexual Misconduct" prohibited by the university.

University policy requires all university employees in a teaching, managerial, or supervisory role to report all incidents of Sexual Misconduct that come to their attention in any way, including but not limited to face-to-face conversations, a written class assignment or paper, class discussion, email, text, or social media post. Incidents of Sexual Misconduct should be reported to the Title IX Coordinator at t9coordinator@byu.edu or (801) 422-8692. Reports may also be submitted through EthicsPoint at <https://titleix.byu.edu/report> (<https://titleix.byu.edu/report>) or 1-888-238-1062 (24-hours a day).

BYU offers confidential resources for those affected by Sexual Misconduct, including the university's Victim Advocate, as well as a number of non-confidential resources and services that may be helpful. Additional information about Title IX, the university's Sexual Misconduct Policy, reporting requirements, and resources can be found at <http://titleix.byu.edu> (<http://titleix.byu.edu>) or by contacting the university's Title IX Coordinator.

Student Disability

Brigham Young University is committed to providing a working and learning atmosphere that reasonably accommodates qualified persons with disabilities. A disability is a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities. Whether an impairment is substantially limiting depends on its nature and severity, its duration or expected duration, and its permanent or expected permanent or long-term impact. Examples include vision or hearing impairments, physical disabilities, chronic illnesses, emotional disorders (e.g., depression, anxiety), learning disorders, and attention disorders (e.g., ADHD). If you have a disability which impairs your ability to complete this course successfully, please contact the University Accessibility Center (UAC), 2170 WSC or 801-422-2767 to request a reasonable accommodation. The UAC can also assess students for learning, attention, and emotional concerns. If you feel you have been unlawfully discriminated against on the basis of disability, please contact the Equal Employment Office at 801-422-5895, D-285 ASB for help.

Academic Honesty

The first injunction of the Honor Code is the call to "be honest." Students come to the university not only to improve their minds, gain knowledge, and develop skills that will assist them in their life's work, but also to build character. "President David O. McKay taught that character is the highest aim of education" (The Aims of a BYU Education, p.6). It is the purpose of the BYU Academic Honesty Policy to assist in fulfilling that aim. BYU students should seek to be totally honest in their dealings with others. They should complete their own work and be evaluated based upon that work. They should avoid academic dishonesty and misconduct in all its forms, including but not limited to plagiarism, fabrication or falsification, cheating, and other academic misconduct.

Plagiarism

Intentional plagiarism is a form of intellectual theft that violates widely recognized principles of academic integrity as well as the Honor Code. Such plagiarism may subject the student to appropriate disciplinary action administered through the university Honor Code Office, in addition to academic sanctions that may be applied by an instructor. Inadvertent plagiarism, which may not be a violation of the Honor Code, is nevertheless a form of intellectual carelessness that is unacceptable in the academic community. Plagiarism of any kind is completely contrary to the established practices of higher education where all members of the university are expected to acknowledge the original intellectual work of others that is included in their own work. In some cases, plagiarism may also involve violations of copyright law. Intentional Plagiarism-Intentional plagiarism is the deliberate act of representing the words, ideas, or data of another as one's own without providing proper attribution to the author through quotation, reference, or footnote. Inadvertent Plagiarism-Inadvertent plagiarism involves the inappropriate, but non-deliberate, use of another's words, ideas, or data without proper attribution. Inadvertent plagiarism usually results from an ignorant failure to follow established rules for documenting sources or from simply not being sufficiently careful in research and writing. Although not a violation of the Honor Code, inadvertent plagiarism is a form of academic misconduct for which an instructor can impose appropriate academic sanctions. Students who are in doubt as to whether they are providing proper attribution have the responsibility to consult with their instructor and obtain guidance. Examples of plagiarism include: Direct Plagiarism-The verbatim copying of an original source without acknowledging the source. Paraphrased Plagiarism-The paraphrasing, without acknowledgement, of ideas from another that the reader might mistake for the author's own. Plagiarism Mosaic-The borrowing of words, ideas, or data from an original source and blending this original material with one's own without acknowledging the source. Insufficient Acknowledgement-The partial or incomplete attribution of words, ideas, or data from an original source. Plagiarism may occur with respect to unpublished as well as published material. Copying another student's work and submitting it as one's own individual work without proper attribution is a serious form of plagiarism.

Respectful Environment

"Sadly, from time to time, we do hear reports of those who are at best insensitive and at worst insulting in their comments to and about others... We hear derogatory and sometimes even defamatory comments about those with different political, athletic, or ethnic views or experiences. Such behavior is completely out of place at BYU, and I enlist the aid of all to monitor carefully and, if necessary, correct any such that might occur here, however inadvertent or unintentional. "I worry particularly about demeaning comments made about the career or major choices of women or men either directly or about members of the BYU community generally. We must remember that personal agency is a fundamental principle and that none of us has the right or option to criticize the lawful choices of another." President Cecil O. Samuelson, Annual University Conference, August 24, 2010 "Occasionally, we ... hear reports that our female faculty feel disrespected, especially by students, for choosing to work at BYU, even though each one has been approved by the BYU Board of Trustees. Brothers and sisters, these things ought not to be. Not here. Not at a university that shares a constitution with the School of the Prophets." Vice President John S. Tanner, Annual University Conference, August 24, 2010
